DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 11 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 11 recites the limitation "said selected function" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 12 recites the limitation "said variable impedance component" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-3, 5 and 7-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Noro (US 5,206,912).

Regarding claims 1-3, Noro shows a thermal overload and resonant motion control circuit for an audio speaker including a feedback generating circuit (includes 31 and 32 in Fig. 6) and an attenuator (includes 20).

Art Unit: 2644

Regarding claim 7, Noro shows the sensing resistor (Rs).

Regarding claims 5, 8 and 9, Noro shows the first, second and third differential amplifiers ((32, 31, and the one before 20) with a low pass filter.

5. Claims 1, 7 and 10-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Pritchard (US 5,761,316).

Regarding claims 1, 7 and 10-12, Noro shows a thermal overload and resonant motion control circuit for an audio speaker including a feedback generating circuit (Fig. 1) and an attenuator (includes 2) having sensing resistor (31).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 4 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Noro.

Regarding claims 4 and 6, Noro fails to clearly show the value of a and b by explicitly listing the value of each resistor component in the circuit as shown in Fig. 6. Noro teaches a general speaker driving circuit using the drive current and the drive voltage for controlling the performance. However, it was a matter of engineering design choice to fine tune the circuit by using any appropriate resistance value for each resistor in the circuit. Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Noro's system by using designer's selected resistance value for each resistor according to the application and designer's choice.
